Charity Board Asks for Improvements on Buildings.

PROVISIONS IN ESTIMATES

Sums for Work on Proposed City Hospital and for Tugboat Are Included.

Improvement of many of the buildings occupied by the District of Columbia's penal and correctional institutions is provided for in the estimates of the board of charities, formally transmitted to the District Commissioners today.

At the conclusion of a two-hour conference in the boardroom of the Municipal building this morning, at which the estimates were discussed by the Commission ers and members of the charities board, it was announced that only a little pruning probably would be required in order to bring the figures within the $1,250 000 limit alloted the board by the Commisstoners as its share of the District's budget for next year.

Two of the Appropriations. .

Among the appropriations definitely decided on, it is understood, are provisions for commencing work on the proposed city hospital, to be located on the site of the Tuberculosis Hospital, on Brightwood avenue, and for the purchase of a tugboat to be operated between Washington and the workhouse at Occoquan. The ultimate cost of the hospital is to be $300,000, according to the plans of the charities board. Congress will be asked to appropriate $60,000 of the amount this

It is understood that $25,000 is wanted for the purchase of a tugboat, while an additional item provides for the purchase of barges to be operated between the city and the workhouse. The brick and crushed stone output of the workhouse will be much larger next year, and it is stated that the purchase of a tug and barges constitutes one of the necessities that Congress will be asked to provide for this year.

No New Buildings.

While appropriations for improving the buildings occupied by the various charitable and penal institutions are requested, it is stated that the plans call for the erection of practically no new build-

In the case of the Industrial Home for Colored Children, at Blue Plains, however, a new building with accommodations for twenty-five children is desired, and an appropriation of $5,000 for this purpose is included in the estimates, it is

CHICAGO, October 5.-A minister and a good horse must have similar qualifications in the opinion of Bishop William bers of the Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Evanston, Bishop McDowell spoke on "The Price of Leadership."

"Some ministers will work all right in the lead," said the speaker, "but balk when placed in any other position. Some times they work very well alone, but can't make a hitch with others. They will work in harness, but not under the saddle, that is, they will pull, but do not propose to have any one ride them." A good horse, he said, should be perfectly dependable, should work single or double, in the lead or on the outside, in harness or under the saddle.

Shahan.

"I was not in the wreck, I am glad to say," Mgr. Shahan remarked this morning. "I spent Thursday and Thursday night in Hartford, Conn., where I had gone to attend the Patrick Garvan funeral, attended by the four women of the Brady family, who were killed. I seems proper, however, to say that the priest who did minister to the needs of those in the wreck was the Rev. Father J. N. Reynolds, pastor of St. James Church at Red Bank, N. J. He also had gone to Hartford to attend the funeral I attended, and he left for home on the train that was wrecked.

Refused to Give Name.

The accounts of the wreck described the work of an unidentified Catholic clergyman, who, in addition to administering story, and its lesson is: "See that ye hold the last rites to such Catholics as could be found, aided other passengers and the "spacious days of great Elizabeth" trainmen in taking from the wrecked days of great men and great opportunities cars persons who were dead or dying or otherwise in need of aid. The priest at the time refused to give his name to inquirers at the wreck, it was stated, and Mgr.
